The collection comprises approximately 1000 unique postcards, ca. 1890-1990, with black and white and colour images documenting civic architecture, railway and other commercial activities, and urban and rural scenes throughout Elgin County and particularly in St. Thomas and Port Stanley, Ontario. The project was financially supported by Heritage Canada through the Young Canada Works in Heritage Institutions Program administered by the Canadian Council of Archives. Item-level descriptive records are available through the Archives' online database.
